2023 EFA Expo: Editors' picks

TAKING TO THE expo hall at EFA, the editors of Environments for Aging found a variety of new products and services that stood out for their innovation, aesthetics, and ability to meet the industry's pressing needs. Here are a few noteworthy ones that got our attention.

1 Accora's Empresa clinical nursing bed has a residential look that supports a homelike environment within senior living communities. Empresa can be customized with seven different headboard and footboard styles and 16 wood finishes, including cherry and oak. Using FloorBed technology, the unit can be lowered to 3.9 inches for staff and resident safety. accora.care

2 The Puzzle Table from Designed Décor allows in-progress jigsaw puzzles to stay in place when residents take a break or an area switches to a new activity. The table includes a recessed workspace to hold an in-progress puzzle and a flip tabletop to protect the game. The unit also includes pull-out drawers for sorting pieces and storage space for a puzzle box. designeddecor.com

3 Expanding fabric options for interior and exterior spaces, Posh Textiles introduced Terra Verde Collection of sustainable fabrics. The solution-dyed, eco-friendly olefin yarns are thicker and heavily textured to resemble a traditional residential fabric, including the Grove pattern (shown), a 1970s-inspired, nubby, solid bouclé textured fabric. poshtextiles.com

4 Focusing on the needs of caregivers, Samuelson's Lou Lou Chair has an open hand-hold notch at the top rail that allows the chair to be easily grasped to maneuver it around any space. Additionally, a patented CATCH hardware system on the back of the chair holds a resident's personal belongings, such as a handbag or folded walker. samuelsonfurniture.com

5 To support designs inspired by a community's local geography, Regional Tapestry Collection by Signature offers broadloom and carpet tiles influenced by natural environments and landscapes: Coastal, Plains and Lowlands, Southwest, and Metropolitan. Each style features representative color palettes, such as rust, blue, green, and beige colors for the Southwest. signatureflooring.com eā
