

Reviewed

REVIEWED

REVIEWED HONORS THE BEST TECH PRODUCTS OF 2026 WITH ITS ANNUAL CES AWARDS

Live from Las Vegas

Credit: Govee / Peauty /Hypershell / Satellai / Reviewed

Written by Marc Saltzman, David Kender, Leigh Harrington, and Amanda Eiden

January 8, 2026

Products are chosen independently by our editors. Purchases made through our links may earn us a commission.

What better way to start a new year than with the annual CES tech show in Las Vegas? Each year, Reviewed's team scours the halls to witness thousands of new products entering the market, all claiming to be the next big thing in their space. Our job? Deciding which are the absolute best for our readers.

We saw hundreds of incredible products across smart home gadgets, kitchen appliances, home entertainment, lifestyle, and robots—even humanoid ones!—but we have to narrow down our favorites. So, here we are, handing out the Reviewed Awards of CES 2026!

These 80 winners deserve to be recognized for their trailblazing efforts in innovation, progress, and embracing our changing world. We want to congratulate all of these brands, and we're excited to test our absolute favorite products throughout the year.

Immersion Sound Chair by Samuelson Furniture

While Samuelson Furniture has been around for more than 90 years, the fourth-generation family brand made some noise during its CES debut with its Immersion Sound Chair. As the name suggests, it fuses ergonomic seating with Bluetooth audio, and while it's not the first product to do this, it delivers private sound to those who sit in it (and unlike most gaming chairs, it's not a directional firing speaker). Designed primarily for aging adults, the company says, the high-back wing solid wood chair, finished in a walnut stain, is meant to "reduce hearing strain while supporting music therapy, relaxation, and cognitive wellness." The patented Immersion Sound Chair is now available for $8,750.

Available in 2026